The Commission will hold a public hearing to consider Detroit Edison's October 29, 2010 request for authority to increase its annual base electric revenues by approximately $443 million, implement or modify several other expense recovery mechanisms or proposals previously ordered by the Commission or requested by Detroit Edison, and continue recovery of regulatory assets. Detroit Edison is proposing several adjustments that would, if approved by the Commission, partially offset the proposed rate increase to approximately $253 million.

Detroit Edison's application states that the proposed $443 million increase is required to recover the costs associated with environmental compliance; the costs associated with the operation and maintenance of Detroit Edison's electric distribution system and generation plants; the costs associated with employee pension and benefits; the costs associated with inflation; the capital costs associated with the addition of plant, including advanced metering infrastructure, safety and reliability of its electric distribution system and generation plants and capacity upgrades; the impact from expiration of certain wholesale for resale contracts; and the impact of increased taxes and capital structure costs.
